

TERMINAL SUPPLY COMPANY

Statement Regarding RoHS & REACH Certification Requests

Terminal Supply Company, a distributor of electrical and other MRO products and a full-service wire harness assembler, is fully dedicated to socially responsible sourcing. TSC receives multiple requests for information on the electronic components acquired from us regarding RoHS, REACH or other initiatives concerning hazardous material content. As a distributor and reseller, TSC does not have the information to respond directly to these requests.

The original manufacturers have requested that we direct these requests directly to them. We have accordingly requested that the relevant factories respond directly to our customers. Please send your request directly to them. If you do not have a factory contact, your account manager can assist you with locating a factory representative to contact and other available information.

To aid our customers in locating their component manufacturers position, transition plans and product information, TSC maintains links to all available RoHS information from our suppliers at our Compliance Issues Information web page:

<http://terminalsupplyco.com/customer/default.aspx>

Manufacturers have made it clear that their distributors are not authorized to provide such certifications on their behalf.

Chris Covatta
Vice President & General Counsel
December 12, 2019